Federal Cuts May Mean Death Of SCAP

by Anita Susi

What is to be the fate of the Somerset Community Action Program and its subsidiary agencies now that President Nixon has made major cuts in the budgets of social services?

Quoting an article in Monday's issue of the New York Times, Ms. Joan Bullock, public relations director for SCAP stated "Community Action Programs have been killed."

"We have a contract to operate through November 30 of this year, but I doubt that it is worth the paper it is printed on," remarked Ronald Copeland, executive director of SCAP Tuesday.

"There are many rumors running around about what may happen to us, and things should become more clear next week," he added. "There is a conference underway for directors of the 997 existing CAP programs in the U.S. right now in Washington. The rumors indicate that we may have to appeal to state and local governments for funds to exist.

"We knew it was coming," continued Mr. Copeland. "The trend over the past two years has been towards removing community control and turning it back to municipal and state government." The loss of community control is SCAP's biggest worry.

"The Community Action Programs have had a tremendous impact, as a catalyst for poor people to begin feeling self-worth and begin making decisions. There will be a roar across the country when people see what will happen," said Mr. Copeland.

Asked about the mood of people connected with SCAP, he stated, "People here are getting angry." He felt the impact of the fund cuts would have dramatic effects on local social services.

Funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity, Mr. Copeland believes, will be withdrawn immediately. Among SCAP programs funded by OEO is a $41,500 youth development program which was set up to organize youth councils in Somerville, Bridgewater and North Plainfield.

They were getting ready to begin a council in Manville. The director and the two organizers employed by the program will be terminated, according to Mr. Copeland.

SCAP will also lose $138,000 allocated by OEO for its administrative functions.

Cutbacks are imminent in the Manpower and Neighborhood Youth Corps programs funded by the U.S. Department of Labor. This includes 23 persons receiving job training under the Operation Mainstream budget of $115,000, and 25 in the Youth Corps budget of $82,000.

The Youth Corps handles mainly school dropouts under age 21, while Mainstream takes care of older persons requiring new job training.

"We have no idea yet how the summer Neighborhood Youth Corps program will be affected," noted Mr. Copeland. Last year the N.Y.C. hired 200 Somerset County youths with $41,000 from the U.S. Department of Labor and $45,000 from the State Department of Labor.

Family income is the criteria for summer program employment. He said it was possible there would be no such program for poverty youths this summer.

Day Care programs administered by SCAP will be affected also. Health, Education and Welfare funds totaling $117,000 and involving 70 youngsters may be cut.

Another program called Day Care 100 will affect 225 youngsters. This program is funded with 25 per cent state funds and 75 per cent HEW Title 4-A matching funds, channeled through the state.

According to Mr. Copeland, Governor Cahill has cut the state portion of the funds from this year's budget, so SCAP must come up with the 25 per cent, or $58,000, or eliminate the program.

Including the Manpower program, over 120 staff people at SCAP stand to lose their jobs due to the fund cuts.

"We supplied a definite need in this area. I predict this will throw a lot of people back on welfare and there will be a lot of unemployed youths this summer," remarked Mr. Copeland.

Another cutback which may leave poor people without recourse in the courts is the end of funding for Somerset and Sussex County Legal Services, which employs a staff of 13 persons, including six attorneys.

The staff handles over 2,000 civil cases annually on a $99,000 budget. Criminal cases are handled by the public defenders.

Program Evaluation Proposed

School Board Approves $9.7 Million Budget, 7-2

A $9.7 million dollar school budget awaits the voters of Franklin Township in the Feb. 13 annual school election despite the objections of school board members Henry Spritzer and Michael Ward, who claimed the budget is too high.

Mr. Spritzer, at Monday night's public hearing on the budget, denounced the budget as part of a "vicious inflationary spiral, which must be ended."

"Board members who support the budget don't know what's in it," he added, stating "There is no need for substantial increases when our school population has stabilized. The board doesn't know the impact of high realty taxes on our citizens."

When Samuel Williamson, another board member, challenged the statements by saying, "I have yet to hear one remark indicating where the budget is too high," Mr. Ward replied, "I have plenty of pet areas I would like to see cut, but it will be decided at the polls. The council will assume its responsibility where we have failed."

Colin Lancaster, however, remarked that he felt the budget was "at least $30,000 too low, especially in the area of pupil transportation."

The school board voted 7-2 to place the budget before the voters, with Mr. Ward and Mr. Spritzer dissenting. A minor disagreement arose when Mrs. Marsha Sobel indicated she wished to make a statement at the time of her vote. She was overruled by board president Raymond Mesiah, who said she had had sufficient time to make her statement before the voting.

Mrs. Sobel then withheld her vote until all the others had been cast, stating, "I am voting yes to put the budget question on the ballot. This is not an endorsement of the budget but a way to allow voters to decide for themselves."

Earlier in the meeting, the board discussed a move to direct superintendent of schools Dr. Robert Maxwell to prepare a resolution providing a plan for continuous, systematic evaluation of existing programs in the school system.

Mr. Spritzer assailed the plan, predicting an "avalanche of paperwork," adding that the evaluations would interfere in school functioning. "It implies that we have no existing evaluation," he said.

Gerald Spielman leaped to the defense of the proposal by claiming that "a true evaluation involves everyone, parents, teachers, students and administration. We constantly are asked 'Was this program justified'?"

Mr. Williamson added, "Self-evaluation is a healthy thing. The board ought to examine itself to determine its effectiveness in serving the public interest. What good does it do to hold up a budget when there is no built-in machinery for change?"

The purpose of the evaluation proposal was questioned by Mr. Ward, who said "The evaluation proposal is designed to satisfy one or two board members who would not otherwise have supported the budget. It is unnecessary, unwarranted and useless, demonstrating a complete lack of trust in our administration."

Mr. Spritzer added that he felt the proposal was a "political ploy."

The board passed the resolution to establish an evaluation program 6-3, with members Mr. Ward, Mr. Spritzer and Mr. Langdon opposing it.

The board also voted to cancel a public meeting scheduled for Feb. 12 in order to allow for a re-organization meeting after elections. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 20, due to a national holiday on the 19th.

Historic Homes Relocation To Be Topic Of Meeting

A controversial proposal to move a number of historic homes located on the site of a reservoir and establish them in an historic village as part of a new shopping center will be discussed Tuesday, Feb. 6, at the meeting of the Franklin Township Historical Society.

James Dantis, marketing director for the Shore and Mountain Homes Development Corp., will present his company's plan to move the homes, which stand in the path of the projected Six Mile Run Reservoir in Franklin Township, and integrate them into the shopping center the firm hopes to build at Colonial Farms in Middlebush.

Mr. Dantis, a Franklin resident, holds degrees in marketing from Rutgers University and has lectured on marketing and management at Hofstra College and for the New York Telephone Company. He is a member of the American Marketing Associaton, and a corporate representative of the Franklin Township Chamber of Commerce.

The public is invited to this meeting, which will be held at 8 p.m. in the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church on Amwell Road near Middlebush.

Colonial Garden Is All-American

Everything is looking rosey at Colonial Park these days, especially since the park's rose garden was accredited by the All-American Rose Selections, a national certification agency for rose growers. In 1972 only two new gardens were officially certified in the United States.

Accreditation means that the Colonial Park rose garden will receive annually 30 plants of each new award winner at least six months to a year ahead of general public sale. The idea of accredited public gardens is to let the public see the new award winning roses before they are offered for sale.

Rizzolo New Legislator

The traditionally Republican voters of Somerset County surprised no one Tuesday as they put former Judge Victor Rizzolo in the state legislature.

Mr. Rizzolo, the Republican standard bearer, was seeking the assembly seat left vacant by the appointment of Millicent Fenwick as consummer affairs director. His democratic opponent was former county prosecutor Michael Imbriani.

In unofficial returns from the county clerks office, Mr. Rizzolo polled 6696 votes to Mr. Imbriani's 5816. American party candidate Anthony Medieros polled 491.

Mr. Rizzolo polled his biggest margin of victory in his home township of Hillsborough where the spread was 430 votes. Mr. Rizzolo won the entire county by 880.

Manville borough remained in the Democratic column giving Mr. Imbriani 350 votes to Mr. Rizzolo's 225. Franklin Township also went with Mr. Imbriani, 690-635.

In the southern part of the county, Montgomery voters preferred Mr. Rizzolo, 158-117 as did Rocky Hill voters, 29-17.

Mr. Rizzolo awaited the returns at the county administration building in Somerville and the first returns showed Mr. Imbriani mounting a lead.

But when returns from Hillsborough began to trickle in the Democratic lead quickly evaporated and Mr. Rizzolo pulled ahead to stay.

Mr. Imbriani showed surprising strength in some of the northern regions. Most communities there stayed in the Republican column but not by the majority most had hoped for in the Republican camp.

But Hillsborough supplied the victor with whopping majorities in all districts. Despite wins in other parts of the county, Mr. Imbriani was not able to make up the difference.

When it became apparent that county assembly delegation would remain solidly Republican, Mr. Rizzolo said that he would go to Trenton to assume his duties as soon as possible.

He said the dualization of 206 is the top priority measure he will push for.

"If we get no satisfaction from the highway department, we will take action elsewhere," the new assemblyman said.

"The people of Hillsborough and Montgomery want something done with the highway now."

Another issue on his list is the restoring of full rights to those convicted on drug charges, if they have had a conviction free record for 10 years.

"Mrs. Fenwick introduced a similar bill and I support it," he said.

Asked whether he felt hindered by starting a month after the rest of the legislators, Mr. Rizzolo said that he would conduct an intensive study of all the bills now being considered.

"I have some catching up to do," he noted smiling.

Traffic Signal Demanded

Action on a traffic light for the intersection of Hamilton Street and John F. Kennedy Boulevard has been demanded by township manager Charles Burger in an ultimatum sent to John C. Kohl, commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Transportation, at the direction of the township council.

Included in the letter is a brief history of the township's past efforts to get action on the traffic signal problem, dating back to April 2, 1971, when the council petitioned the Somerset County Board of Freeholders for a light.

"After a year of inaction, we inquired again about the status of the request on March 13, 1972. Since then the action has progressed only to the completion of traffic counts by county and Department of Transportation personnel," asserts Mr. Burger, adding that the township still has no definitive word from either agency on the light.

"Our people can wait no longer," continues the letter. "The referenced intersection is one of the worst in the township and police accident data are available to support this statement.

"It is the junction of two major arterial roads, and motorists using either one are subjected to dangerous turning movements or are forced to take excessive risks to cross Hamilton Street, a 50-mile-per-hour speed zone. The progression of accidents at this location can only eventually lead to a fatal accident."

Mr. Burger requests Mr. Kohl to direct the appropriate traffic personnel "with all haste to conclude required activities and approve the installation of the signal device."

He adds that this alone will not be enough, that Mr. Kohl should exert pressure on the county freeholders to expedite purchase and installation of the equipment.

"The residents of this community have reached the point where they can no longer bear the constant daily exposure to the loss of life and limb as a result of traveling through the Hamilton Street-JFK Boulevard 'battlefield.' Their ire, frustration, hostility and aggressiveness can be expected to soon be directed toward any state elected or appointed officer who can act but fails to do so. Township officials would quite naturally be expected to sympathize with them," Mr. Burger said.

"We urge you to expedite installation of this traffic signal within the next 45 days at the longest," concludes Mr. Burger.

Strengths Of Franklin School System Discussed

Candidates for the three seats in the Franklin Board of Education were invited this week to discuss what they felt have been the strengths and weaknesses of this township's school system.

The use of this awareness in benefitting our township has also been commented on by the candidates.

Mrs. Marilyn Zuckerman had the following to say:

"The greatest strength of the Franklin schools is the diversity of backgrounds that our children bring to the schools. This means that many perspectives can be brought to bear on educational questions.

"Our greatest weakness is the fact that we have not recognized this diversity as strength. Instead, we think of it as a weakness. We think that if everybody thought alike our problems would disappear. The truth is that they would only become less evident. We live in fear of people who are different from ourselves, when those differences can make our lives and the lives of our children so much richer.

"As a board member I would try to set up as many ways as possible to allow differing groups to get together to solve problems. Only through working together can we appreciate and gain from the wealth of thought and viewpoint of the people of Franklin."

Mrs. Barbara Francfort also focused on the students in the system.

"The strength of any system lies basically in the people involved in or contributing to it," said Mrs. Francfort. "Franklin has many fine, dedicated teachers and administrators. The number of students who are desirous of pursuing their studies and acquiring knowledge outweigh those who lack interest and disrupt. The parents who imbue their children with respect for the rights of others send responsible students to our schools. Each one contributes to the total strength of the system.

"The weakness of our schools lies conversely in those educators who are ill-equipped to deal firmly and judiciously with disrupters and in those students who continue to disrupt and harrass their peers, teachers and administrators.

"Our alternate facilities should be continued and an honest effort made to provide meaningful programs which will benefit the students who do not desire nor are able to function in our regular school system," she concluded.

H. Richard Smith included an attack on the present school board in his comments:

"There are several areas that we could call strengths of our township schools. First, I think we could mention the support given by taxpayers to worthwhile programs. Then there is the more than adequate physical plant and the many diversified programs on the elementary, intermediate, and high school levels.

"Perhaps the main weakness of the school system is the leadership of the present majority bloc of the school board. They are uninformed and seemingly disinterested in things that are happening in our school system. Obviously this was demonstrated by their reluctance to vote on the budget last Monday night, Jan. 22. Many times the board is among the last to know what is going on," claimed Mr. Smith.

Incumbent board member Daniel Cerullo presented an inside view into Franklin schools.

"We have the most flexible staffing of anyone. It can react to any situation that arises in the shortest time possible and do a very good job. We have very good facilities and equipment, and we provide one of the best educational programs for the handicapped in the area.

"Our greatest weakness is the fact that we have never utilized what we have to it's fullest potential," stated Mr. Cerullo.

"As a board member I would strive to make better use of our equipment and staff by helping devise new and better evaluation procedures. Our staff's flexibility could be used to help 50 per cent of our students who are not academically inclined to find a more meaningful program in vocational trade skills. We must increase the number of fields our students can get practical experience in to adequately provide for themselves."

Much praise for achievements of the schools was presented by Adolph Katz, who said:

"The key to the strength, and success, of any part of our school system are the people who use their skills and talents with enthusiasm and determination to work for something in which they believe. In the classroom we have teachers dedicated to their profession and bearing a love for children. The result: a multitude of mini-grant awards, an acclaimed musical production, "Joseph and His Amazing Dream Coat" and others.

"In the community we have parents who not only recognize the need to participate but also to support and extend the scope of the schools' offerings thereby better enabling the schools' to serve our children. The result: The Band Parents Association, the Booster Club, Cultural Arts Program for after school, and Reading Tutorial programs in elementary grades.

"On the other side are the forces in our community (and every community has them) seeking to exploit our differences. These are the negativists, persistently criticizing but never offering alternatives except those that have repeatedly ended in failure," remarked Mr. Katz.

"More generally, the demand that the schools alone serve to correct the problems confronting our society, is a weakness more difficult to contend with. Racial tensions, the frustrations of the Vietnam War, economic uncertainty – these are national problems. While the schools have their role, they are not

Fund Raising Fraud Claimed By Local Group

The New Jersey Association for Retarded Children has asked local residents to beware of a person soliciting funds door to door in the name of the organization.

Mrs. Joan Sapienza, executive director of the Somerset County unit of the NJARC, said the solicitor is a fraud and is not in any way connected with her organization.

Mrs. Sapienza said the person was working in the Morris County area stating that he was from the NJARC in Newark. The county director said that the group's base is in New Brunswick not Newark. Also the group does not solicit door to door for funds.

She asked any residents who are approached by a person claiming to be a member of the organization to report it to the NJARC office at 110 Rehill Ave., Somerville, so that the proper authorities can be notified.

Five Candidates In Race For Hearts Title

Five candidates will vie for the title of Queen of Hearts in the month-long competition that has become a feature of the Somerset County Heart Association's February fund drive. Each is sponsored by an organization that will help her earn votes by raising money for the Heart Fund.

Participating for the first time is the student government and nurses' association of Somerset County College who will back Miss Karen Jensen of 44 Guinard Dr., Watchung.

Other entrants and their sponsors are Miss Sandra Casterline, 837 Kennedy Blvd., Manville - Stevenson D'Allessio American Legion Post #12; Mrs. Kevin Kennedy, 475 West End Ave., North Plainfield - North Plainfield Jaycees; Mrs. William Schmal, Lamington Road, Somerville - Somerville-Raritan Exchange Club; and Miss Theresa Weigel, 273 Milltown Rd., Somerville - Bridgewater Jaycees.

Mrs. Schmal and Mrs. Kennedy both care for small children at home. Miss Casterline is a dividend clerk for Prudential Insurance Company. Miss Jensen is a student nurse at the college. Miss Weigel, a member of the class council and yearbook staff, is a senior at Bridgewater Raritan High School-West.

In the first 13 years of Queen of Hearts competition, the American Legion Post has backed five victorious candidates including Mrs. Charles Slovinsky, the 1972 Queen of Hearts.

Mrs. Warren Richardson of 118 Timothy Place, Somerville, serves as general chairman for Queen of Hearts activities. She wore the crown herself in 1971, when she represented the Bridgewater Jaycees.

This year's aspirants will make their first public appearance at a fashion show to be held at Far Hills Inn Wednesday, Feb. 7. It is billed as "A Bouquet of Fashion." Queen candidates will model clothes from the Country Closet in Martinsville.

Mrs. Thomas Grocott, 418 Van Holten Rd., Somerville, chairs this event. Tickets may be purchased from any Queen of Hearts candidate or from the Somerset County Heart Association in Somerville.

The girls will also answer telephones at the educational-promotional radiothon to be conducted by station WBRW all day Saturday, Feb. 3. Key personnel of the Heart Association will discuss organization, activities and developments in cardiac care while others handle heart fund pledges.

Heart Disease Is Formidable Killer

Like crime and war and slaughter on the highways, heart and blood vessel disease are formidable killers.

The statistics tell the story: over 27 million have some form of cardiovascular disease. About 900,000 will die this year from heart attack, stroke and complications of hypertension.

Heart attack occurs so commonly, even in younger adults (165,000 under 60 in 1971) that many of us are fatalistic, accepting the likelihood of death as an unalterable fact of life. When we hear of a friend's death from heart disease, we too often say with resignation, "Too bad, but there was nothing to be done."

This is not true. Something can be done. More than half (350,000) of the people who died of heart attack last year never even got to the hospital. In most cases, the victim failed to recognize or act promptly when the warning signs of heart attack appeared.

The American Heart Association urges: "When you experience one or more of these signs, call your doctor and describe these symptoms in detail. If he's not immediately available, get to the hospital emergency room at once."

You should read and remember these early warning signs.

The warning signs of heart attack:

- Prolonged heavy pressure or squeezing pain in the center of the chest behind the breastbone.
- Pain may spread to the shoulder, arm, neck or jaw.
- Pain or discomfort is often accompanied by sweating.
- Pain may go away, then return.
- Nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath may also occur.

The warning signs of stroke:

- Sudden, temporary weakness of numbness of the face, arm or leg.
- Temporary difficulty or loss of speech, or trouble understanding speech.
- Temporary dimness or loss of vision, particularly in one eye.
- Unexplained dizziness or unsteadiness.
- Change in personality, mental ability or the pattern of your headaches may also occur.

Coronary Care Unit Opens At Hospital

SOMERVILLE -- Somerset Hospital's new coronary care unit officially opened Monday, Jan. 22, according to Nelson O. Lindley, hospital administrator.

The coronary care unit, located on the first floor of the new west wing, features some of the most sophisticated cardiac monitoring equipment currently available.

Eight beds in the twelve bed unit will be used for patients with cardiac arrhythymia -problems with heart rate irregularity. Each patient will be housed in an individual room and will be fully monitored. Monitors at the nurses station will maintain constant vigilance over each patient's condition. If a patient should experience difficulty, an alarm will sound, bringing immediate assistance to that patient.

Four beds in the unit will feature equipment to monitor the patient's arterial pressure,venous pressure and respiration in addition to the patient's heart rate. This section will be opened at a later date.

"The importance of a good coronary care unit cannot be overemphasized," Administrator Lindley said, "since cardiovascular diseases are the leading causes of death and disability in the nation."

Fully equipped coronary care units have proved most effective in reducing the in-hospital death rate from heart attack. Specially trained personnel are readily available to the patient and are able to control emergencies with the use of drugs, electrical methods of re-starting or re-pacing the heart, mouth-to-mouth breathing and external cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Twenty-nine patient beds outside the coronary care unit will function as a intermediate care unit for cardiac patients. No date has been announced for the opening of this section.

Sixteen patients in this area will be monitored by telemetry, allowing them to move freely around the unit. Each patient will carry a small, transistor device which will transmit information on his heart rate to monitors at the nursing station. If a patient should experience some difficulty, personnel and equipment are readily available to assist him.

"We are pleased that these facilities are now available to residents of our communities," Mr. Lindley added.

GOP To Make Easton High Rise Campaign Issue

FRANKLIN — James Pettit, president of the Franklin Republican Club, stated today that the "high rise presently going up on Easton Avenue is and will be a political issue in the upcoming May election."

Mr. Pettit continued, "This issue is not an argument between the planning board and zoning board as the Democratic administration contends, but rather it is an issue involving the poor administration, calculated or not, of the present majority on the council and planning board, and their puppet, township manager Charles Burger.

"The question is not who had the authority of site plan approval, but why another map was submitted, by whom was it submitted and why it was accepted.

"We intend to submit to the taxpayers of Franklin proof that this administration permitted a substitute map, knowing that they did not have any legal right to do so," said Mr. Pettit.

"This is a campaign issue which will be waged by the Republican Party against all incumbent Democrats, and we will prove gross mismanagement and incompetence," Mr. Pettit said.

I-287 OPENS

TRENTON — Transportation Commissioner John C. Kohl announced Monday that a five-mile long section of Interstate Route 287 south of Morristown will be opened to traffic at 9 a.m. today. The new section of the freeway extends from North Maple Avenue, Bernards Township, Somerset County north across the Passaic River to Route 24, Madison Avenue, Morristown, Morris County.

Edison Playhouse To Present 'Luv'

EDISON -- Four veteran performers will be reunited for four weekends commencing on Friday, Feb. 2, with the presentation by the Edison Valley Playhouse of Murray Schisgal's off-beat comedy "Luv." Three of the performers will be on stage, the fourth will be seated in the director's chair. Onstage will be Joan Romeo, Ed Yanowitz and Murray Greenberg. Marcia Tamm is the director.

All of these members have worked together in various productions in various combinations; e.g. The Misses Tamm and Romeo shared billing "The Innocents"; Mr. Greenberg joined the two ladies in "Lullaby"; Miss Romeo and Mr. Yanowitz shared billing in "Golden Boy"; but this is the first time all four have been involved in the same production.

This is not the first directoral chore for the E.V.P. by Marcia Tamm. She has previously directed "Mary, Mary" for E.V.P. She is a founder of the Playhouse and a charter board member and is frank to admit that she prefers acting to directing.

She is currently the president of the board at the Playhouse. She is noted for her fine portrayals of a long series of 'mothers'--Jewish, Irish, plain American, and all of them fairly overbearing.

Joan Romeo is currently vice-president of the E.V.P. and has a long string of appearances with many local groups such as The Villagers, The Foothill Playhouse, Woodbridge Repertory Players, E.V.P. and the Plays in the Park. She has run the full range of characters--comic, tragic, character, leading lady, etc.

Ed Yanowitz, a teacher by profession, is no stranger to the theater as both actor and director. His roles have covered a range from "Antigone" through "Crucible", "Golden Boy", "Long Day's Journey Into Night" to "My Three Angels". He will be directing the next production for the Edison Valley Playhouse, Arthur Miller's "A View from the Bridge".

Murray Greenberg, an investment broker by day, is an avid worker in community theater and has appeared with such groups as The Villagers, East Brunswick Community Players, Circle Players, Maplewood Strollers, among others. A resident of Somerset, this is his second appearance with E.V.P.

Murray Schisgal's play called "Luv" can only be called off-beat. It has been described as a comedy of "total, tempestuous and glorious glee" which pokes fun at the "nagging indignities which flesh is heir too".

When asked to describe the play the director and the actors found themselves at a loss other than to say"it is funny and 'bent'...it's about people, and things and things that happen to them...hilarious and true..."

"Luv" will play for four consecutive weekends with performances on each Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Student rates are available for the Friday and Sunday performances. Reservations are recommended due to the limited seating capacity of the Edison Valley Playhouse, located on Oak Tree Road in Edison.

Joint Health Effort Set In Franklin

FRANKLIN — On Monday, Jan. 22, SCAN representatives met with the Franklin Township Board of Health for the purpose of planning joint ventures in the area of community health. It was felt that both organizations were providing essential services to the community, but more efficient service would be instituted if there was an overall system of cooperation.

The Franklin Township Board of Health operates in the areas of code enforcement, immunization, family planning, disease control and health education. SCAN (Somerset Citizens Against Narcotics -- a federally funded drug rehabilitation program) deals with the drug problem, including treatment, rehabilitation and prevention. Its Day Care Center is located at 9 Pershing Ave., Somerset.

The main focus of concern at present is the design of a comprehensive health care program, emphasizing drugs and all related problems, that will be instituted in the Franklin Township school system. The program will be geared progressively from K to 12th grades.

Phys. Ed. Presentation Scheduled

FRANKLIN – The February meeting of the Sampson G. Smith School P.T.S.O. will be held on February 7 at 7:30 p.m. This month the physical education department will present a Gym Show.

The students will be demonstrating the various activities offered the physical education classes at the seventh and eighth grade levels. Highlights of the show are the precision march group, tumbling groups (male and female), gymnastics and folk dance.

The precision marching girls, led by Angela Jackson, have worked out their own steps to music. Outstanding tumbling are Jeffery Greenberg, Kenny Osman, William Carson, Bruce Hadzimichalis, John Nolan, Allan Sprull and Rodney Daniels.

Heidi Jackson and Cheryl Mesiah have prepared a duet routine on the parallel bars.

Jack Gaido and Kevin Gardner are among the Swedish box performers. Greg Bell and Mark Vail will be working with others on the mats. Ed Wasson and Christopher Plummer have been assisting the group.

Folk dances from other countries will be demonstrated by seventh grade girls.

An organized exercise, developed by Mrs. Joan Patterson, will be the warm ups for the participants.

Advanced tickets are needed for admission. They are free and can be obtained at the school on a first-come-first served basis.

Reformed Church Guild To Meet

Mrs. A. Robert Koch and Mrs. Dominick Scalzone will co-host the 8 p.m. February 12 meeting of the Guild for Christian Service of the Hillsborough Reformed Church, Millstone. The worship service will be conducted by Mrs. Dean Skaer.

Following the business meeting, the Guild members will have a preview of the newly established Magdalene S. Davis Memorial Library situated in the bell room of the sanctuary.

'SCAP'

A direct national grant has kept 22 persons employed at SCAN, a narcotics counseling program. Trying to contact them by telephone, Mr. Copeland remarked, "I imagine they're all out with their resumes already."

A freeze on HUD money will also affect a rehabilitation housing subsidy program which provides assistance for low-income families in purchasing homes. It is administered by the Somerset County Housing Association.

When will the axe fall on SCAP? Nobody knows yet. "Our funds come quarterly, and they will have to provide a phase-out period. I suspect they will allow us six months at maximum," said Mr. Copeland.

"There is no way we can operate after that six months unless we get local funding," he added.

He has already met with State Senator Raymond Bateman and Somerset County Freeholder Thomas Maggio. "They want to know exactly when we will be cut off. We will be setting up another meeting to determine how this will affect social services in the county."

SCAP will be approaching the 21 municipalities in Somerset County to discuss the possibility of obtaining some revenue-sharing funds in the near future.

What will happen to the SCAP building on Lewis Street in Somerset if SCAP dies, Mr. Copeland was asked.

"The title becomes clear in June when the three-year mortgage is up. The building is owned by the Hamilton Park Youth Development Program, so there's a chance they could use it for their community center if we close.

"HPYDP is funded by the United Fund and Franklin Township, so they will still be operating. Wouldn't it be something if we were moving out the day they tore up the mortgage?"

Project Theft-Guard Due To Start Here This Week

HILLSBOROUGH — A program to help reduce residential burglaries by assisting citizens in marking their valuables for quick identification was launched today in Hillsborough.

Sponsoring the program, called "Project Theft-Guard," will be the Hillsborough Jaycees, who will implement it in cooperation with the Hillsborough Police Department.

The purpose of the program is to get Hillsborough families to mark all valuables in and around their homes with their driver's license numbers. Electric engravers that mark metal, wood, plastic, etc., are being loaned free of charge to any family who wants to participate. Stickers identifying their home as a participant is then given to the family to post on the front and back doors.

According to Al Zdanowicz, chairman of the project for the Jaycees, "Project Theft-Guard" will work as follows:

1. Electric engravers will be kept on hand at the Hillsborough Police Station on Amwell Road.

2. An engraver will be loaned free of charge for three days, to all citizens wishing to participate in the program.

3. A participant will use the engraver to engrave his driver's license number on all valuables kept in their home.

4. At the same time, he will list the valuables so engraved on a special form, available at the police station.

5. When the engraver is returned to the station, the participant will be given two special "Project Theft-Guard" stickers to be placed on or near the front or back doors of the residence.

Statistics point out that in Monterey Park, Calf., where a program of this type was first instituted in 1963, more than 4,000 households were participating by 1971. During the first eight years of the program, only three had been burglarized.

Of the 7,000 households that did not participate, more than 1,800 were burglarized.

Purchase of the stickers and other "Project Theft-Guard" materials, along with Dremel Electric Engravers, is being funded by the Hillsborough Jaycees as a public service.

According to law enforcement officials, "Project Theft-Guard" isn't foolproof, but it does discourage thievery for three reasons:

First, "fences", the people who buy and sell stolen goods, do not like to deal with merchandise that is readily identifiable.

Second, thieves are not anxious to be caught with merchandise on their persons that law enforcement officials can prove belongs to someone else.

Third, although the engraved numbers can be filed off, the fact that they are there makes life harder for the burgler.

Mr. Zdanowicz advises that the engravers be used to engrave such things as radios, tape recorders, TV sets, stereos, cameras, bicycles, power mowers, clocks, items that have particular appeal to thieves...even jewelry and hub caps.

Driver's license numbers are used in the program because they are easily traced by law enforcement agencies. Items recovered from thieves which are so identified have an excellent chance of being returned to the original owners.

For further information about "Project Theft-Guard," contact the Hillsborough Police Department. Call the station at 369-4323 to register your intent to participate. The Hillsborough Police will then call you when your name is next on the list to borrow the engraver.

LETTERS To The EDITOR

Sees Conflict

Editor:

Two years ago in the final days of the board of education campaign in Franklin the newspapers reported that I was being sued by a former president of the board of education and I found myself accused of a "conflict of interest" in an anonymous letter to the county prosecutor.

The first of these charges turned out to be a shame on the public for the person making the charges never even had me served. The second charge was dismissed by the Grand Jury. Last minute accusations have no place in an election campaign and every person should have the right to face their accuser. I hope that this letter meets both criteria outline above.

In the Franklin Township Board of Education election we have one candidate who I believe faces a moral and ethical, if not a legal, conflict of interest if he is elected. I refer to Dr. Katz, who mentions in his campaign literature that he is employed by the state Department of Education.

Let me give two examples of how this conflict could easily exist:

1) On some future issue Dr. Katz could find himself in a minority position on some policy question facing the board of education. At the same time he might find himself in a position where he could recommend to either the commissioner of Education or the state board of education a policy that would completely negate the action taken by our local board and be in complete conflict with the position of a majority of the local board.

2) The commissioner of education and the state board of education sometimes take positions that are opposed by local boards. Recently the state board of education took a stand on student activity fees that is opposed by most local boards throughout the state. In such a case would Dr. Katz side with the local school board against his employers or would he side with his employer against the local school board?

Several years ago we had a candidate who was in the same position as Dr. Katz. While the question of a conflict did not arise at that time an interesting situation did. The candidate in question was strongly opposed to a position taken by the local board. While he lost the election the board found itself with a directive from the commissioner of education that forced a revision of the policy in question and the directive came shortly after the election.

It is my understanding that employees of a local board cannot run for that board and the logic of this ruling is quite obvious.

I would strongly suggest that the same rationale would apply to Dr. Katz. I am not an attorney and have not sought a legal ruling on this matter. However, in conversations with several state officials I have discovered the same concern expressed in this letter and the same strong feeling that a very real conflict of interest exists.

Fair Play

Editor:

I appreciate the coverage your sports editor gave to the Manville High School Girls' Basketball Team. It was nice to see that there is an interest in our girls' program and the girls do deserve the recognition they received.

I feel that in fairness to the boys' basketball teams it should be made known that the views and ideas expressed in the article were not the feelings of the M.H.S. Girls' Varsity or their coaches. We in no way want to take over the boys' game and do not wish to play against the boys except on a very informal basis.

There is a great deal of respect for the boys' basketball team shown by the girls' team and coaches. We would be silly to want to take over the boys spot on the program, for it is the men who have helped us and have taught us so much about the game. When girls' basketball was going through the transition period to the five player game the mens' coaching staff was always there to help the girls' team. Without this help, our girls' program would not have advanced as it has during the past three years.

The problem that arises with the girls' program is that we become second rate when it comes to sharing facilities and equipment. This is a varsity sport and we would like to be treated as such. We do not have the availability of our gym for practice except on boys' game days and a few evenings after the freshmen games.

The girls feel they deserve equal rights in this area. They practice daily for two hours, play 16 games a season, participate in a Christmas Tournament and in the State Tournament. They sacrifice much and work as hard as the boys to do a good job and develop a sense of pride for Manville.

Take over the boys' program? NO WAY! The girls enjoy watching the boys and cheering for them too much. There has always been a good rapport between girls' and boys' teams and coaches. We wouldn't want that to change.

Let's let the boys do their thing and the girls theirs, and be justly proud of each.

Thanks Squad

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt thanks to the Hillsborough Rescue Squad.

Since my mother died in September I have often thought about her, but at the same time I always think of the squad. I wonder if the people of Hillsborough know how fortunate they are in having such a dedicated rescue squad in their midst.

The squad extended much thoughtfulness and consideration toward my mother and she always had a kind word for them. They are very dedicated in their work and must have a great love for their fellow man.

'Surprises' Due?

Editor:

I would like to raise some questions about the Franklin Board of Education election:

Will a flyer be circulated about one day before the election — too late to be answered?

Will it warn of terrible consequences if certain candidates are elected?

Will it be on yellow paper?

Will it be distributed at night, and only in very specific areas of Franklin?

This kind of "surprise" has occurred before. Will it happen again?

The State We're In

The Energy Crunch

by David F. Moore

If you're atune with the media these days you're learning about an energy crisis in New Jersey--right now, not sometime in the future. You're also finding out that industry wants an offshore crude oil port along the New Jersey coast. Inevitably, you will be bathed in crocodile tears from vested interests, blaming environmentalists for the "crisis."

Let's sort this out. First, there's obviously a fuel oil shortage this winter. But it's got nothing to do with environmentalists, just poor planning by the outfits providing our fuel.

Secondly, any argument about offshore tanker ports (and there are some big arguments, both pro and con) has nothing to do with this winter's fuel shortage. They certainly couldn't get the port and other facilities (like additional refineries) ready quickly, if in fact the port is an answer to meet the current situation, construction should have been started 10 years ago.

Governor William T. Cahill has taken a firm stand against the potential disaster represented by a deepwater tanker port, so it's not like the environmental types were alone on this. You may be sure that he has environmental backing though, represented typically by a resolution in support of his position passed on Jan. 13 by the New Jersey Association of Environmental Commissions.

Adding to the opposition, a bill outlawing a tanker port has passed the State Assembly. It's A-2003, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph Robertson, R-Monmouth.

At a recent hearing sponsored by an ad hoc senate committee, William E. Ozzard, chairman of the New Jersey Public Utilities Commission, took a shot at environmentalists for standing in the way of solution of the state's energy crisis, just as though approval of the off-shore port would solve anything. He rang in opposition to off-shore nuclear plants as another reason why environmentalists should be more "reasonable." There's a substantial section of the public not represented by the Public Utilities Commission, it seems to me.

I'd like to see Mr. Ozzard put the "public" back into what for all practical purposes is only a Utilities Commission. Two years ago, a bill to do just that was signed into law to insist that the Utilities Commission examine and consider environmental factors in their decision. So far I haven't seen much in the way of implimentation of that law.

We've seen the impact statement for the deepwater port. It's on the basis of that statement that the Governor made his stand. We have yet to see an impact statement for the off-shore nuke plants. I have a wait and see attitude - as do most environmentalists on that one.

According to oil company spokesmen, the world has perhaps 50 years worth of petroleum left, at current and predicted consumption rates. After that comes a real energy crisis in total terms. Since the idea of an offshore port is to make delivery of crude oil cheaper, it will only deter research into developing new sources of energy and at the same time merely speed up consumption of what little oil is left.

Here's something else: build an offshore port and you've created a city, too. That's because people flock to where the work is, and numerous businesses follow the people. After the oil gets used up in 50 years or so, we might well be left with a ghost city because of the loss of work. We're also left with a whole chunk of coastal environment which will have been messed up permanently for short term reasons.

Before one heeds the siren song of special interest groups with seemingly unlimited public realtions bankrolls, trying to get the environmentalists out of their financial way, he or she should stop and think a little bit about the real question involved.

They are, should we all live off the fat of the land now and selfishly ignore the outlook for our children and grandchildren? Or should we face up to the fact that we should cut back on our energy consumption now and save a little more for the transition to other, and still essentially uninvented, sources so that our descendents won't have cause to despise us?

It's about time we did some real planning for the future instead of jumping from crisis to real, imagined, or created crisis. It's about time we had a state and national energy and land use policy in which all of us had a voice in our own future.

Alice's Wanderland

by Alice Lech

Take a look back to the issue of February 3, 1955. A four-inch blanket of snow was slowing the South County area down a bit. Not so the Manville Chamber of Commerce. At a meeting with better-than-usual attendance, the members of the chamber expressed concern over the haphazard development of the borough's shopping district. Referring to the number of vacant lots in the Main Street shopping district, the chamber accused five persons (the unnamed landowners) of "strangling" business in Manville.

The chamber felt these five persons were content to let the land remain idle as it was costing them little to do so. As an incentive to development, chamber members urged a higher assessment of the vacant land. The borough has grown considerably since then. Vacant land would be welcome today.

The design for a new parsonage was revealed to the parishioners of the Manville Reformed Church. This would be the first parsonage in the 39-year history of the church and would enable the congregation to have a resident minister.

Looking forward to February 1, 1962, we find the Six Mile Run Reservoir taking a big jump toward becoming a reality. Although the site had previously been considered for a reservoir, plans were dropped in favor of the sites at Spruce Run and Round Valley. With the passage of the state's $20 million Green Acres referendum, the State Division of Water Policy and Supply announced its intentions to use the funds to develop the Six Mile Run Reservoir for water supply and recreational purposes.

Despite the efforts of firemen from at least four communities, a stubborn nighttime blaze left one of the areas well-known landmarks almost a total ruin. From the early evening till the wee hours of the morning scores of persons struggled to keep the Somerville Inn alive without success. Almost before the smoke had cleared, the Inn's proprietor, Mrs. Edward Nash, began making plans to rebuild.

The recently opened section of Route 287 began to show promise as an economic attraction for Franklin Township. A three-stage proposal for commercial development of more than 200 acres was presented to the township council. The $6 million commercial center was planned for the area fronting the interstate freeway near New Brunswick Road and Cedar Grove Lane.

Plans called for 350 houses to be built alternating with the commercial construction in three stages over a two year period. A 144-room motel was to be the first structure. The familiar saying about the plans of mice and men is fitting in this case. It took a good deal longer for the motel alone to be built than the two years originally scheduled for the entire center.

We end with a note of sadness on February 2, 1968. At a special session, the Manville council proclaimed a 30-day mourning period in the borough in honor of Mayor George Papawick who passed away at the age of 62, leaving the borough without a leader. More than 400 people joined in the memorial services for the late mayor. Members of the borough council carried the flag draped casket past an honor guard of Borough Police, State Police and Sheriff's Officers.

Many people felt the loss since Mayor Papawick was not only active in politics and all phases of municipal government but also contributed his time and effort to a long list of civic organizations, including the Red Cross, Boy Scouts and the county Mental Health Board. In their Memorial Proclamation, council praised Papawick's "superb efforts as chief executive of the borough" and state "he will be greatly missed....by those who know and respected him as an individual."

Susi Scribbles

by Anita Susi

We almost made it through the winter this year, didn't we? Last week I was driving through Johnson Park in Piscataway when I spotted a lone robin fluttering around in the bushes.

Lee, who does our advertising, told me she saw the Canadian geese heading north last week. It's truly amazing to me, after having spent last winter freezing in a kerosene-stove heated apartment in Massachusetts, to be basking in the sun in January, going coatless. My ice skates have been gathering dust, and my mittens lurk hidden in the depths of my closet.

Last week, to celebrate the spring weather, I did something unprecedented. I leaped out of bed at 7 a.m. and ran around the block in my sweatshirt and jeans.

The few neighbors who were awake looked out of their windows and shook their heads. "Lots of nuts loose in Somerset," they probably mumbled.

I almost made it back to my door before my legs turned to jello and my breath gave out. It took me nearly a week to recover from the shock of exercise, and chances are I may run around the block again sometime four years from now.

I have never been famous for my athletic ability, having devoted myself in high school to varsity chess and babysitting, which were quite strenuous enough for me. Ever try to tackle a pair of twins who didn't want to go to bed yet?

Last year my college friends convinced me that yoga was a good way to exercise my dessicated deltoids, and I donned my baggiest bluejeans and sweatshirt and went to a few classes. Each time I fell asleep during a relaxing exercise and had to be woken up at the end of the class.

Since yoga, I've just about given up hope on myself. I'll play a few rounds of badminton a year with my younger brother, who was a varsity wrestler and football player, and collapse on the lawn within half an hour.

It always amazed me that my fellow students could have so much energy to play frisbee all day. Of course, they all used to keep in shape in the old peace rally days by chanting and leafletting and marching and sitting-in, and they have probably retained their physical fitness from that time.

The only thing that keeps me from turning into a blob these days is carrying groceries, Joe's guitars, and the half-ton of mail I get every morning. The endless trudges across the vast mud plains of Livingston College help, and hauling videotape equipment on the streets of Plainfield definitely beats weightlifting in my book.

But real exercise? Tomorrow, I keep saying. Tomorrow I'll go make a fool out of myself with a basketball, or I'll run around the block again. And a tiny, nagging voice, calling back fond memories of infra-rub, keeps saying "You'll be sorry."

Rutgers Pair Maks Record Natrolite Find

Two sharp-eyed Rutgers University geologists last week discovered the largest crystals of natrolite ever found in this country, and their find has aroused the interest of Smithsonian Institution scientists.

Allen A. Bliss, laboratory technician, and Robert Duffy, Rutgers College junior, reported the find this week. They collected the crystals at the Chimney Rock quarry in Bridgewater Township.

Natrolite is a complex zeolite mineral commonly used inside water softeners to trap the calcium that makes water "hard." It occurs typically in areas of volcanic origin. Other minerals found at the quarry in the past include bornite, malachite, calcite, analcite, phrenite, and datolite.

The Chimney Rock quarry, now source of traprock for construction, had long been a source of native copper ores. Work at the mine began about 200 years ago.

Cedar Wood president Mrs. Donald Brown attended the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs Fourth District Mid-year Briefing for club presidents last Thursday at Federation Headquarters, New Brunswick. The objective of the project will be to contribute $100,000 towards the cost of Phase I of the new Arts Center at Douglass College. Phase I, currently under construction, consists of a complex of four buildings, one for studio arts, art history, music instruction, and an experiemental theatre.

It is not unusual for the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs to be involved in such a project, since this Federation spearheaded the campaign leading to the founding of Douglass in 1918. In this respect New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs is unique among federated clubs in America.

Ordinance # 73-3

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND AN ORDINANCE ENTITLED, "THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF HILLSBOROUGH TOWNSHIP" ADOPTED ON MAY 22, 1946 AND AS THE SAME MAY HAVE BEEN THEREAFTER AMENDED AND SUPLEMENTED FROM TIME TO TIME

Whereas the Township of Hillsborough has heretofore adopted a Planned Unit Development Ordinance as an amendment to "The Zoning Ordinance of Hillsborough Township" which permits a wide variety of multiple family dwelling or uses within the Township; and

Whereas Section XVIII-B of The Zoning Ordinance of Hillsborough Township created and defined standards for the (R-G) Garden Apartment Zone; and

Whereas this Zone District is wholly located within the area of the Township reserved for Planned Unit Development; and

Whereas the Hillsborough Township Planning Board and the Hillsborough Township Committee have determined that all muliple family dwelling or uses should be developed in accordance with the standards set forth and applicable to Planned Unit Developments within the Planned Unit Development Zone; and

Whereas to effect this purpose, the Township of Hillsborough adopted a certain ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to Amend an Ordinance Entitled, "The Zoning Ordinance of Hillsborough Township, etc." on November 14, 1972 (known as Ordinance #72-3) which, inter alia, deleted from the said Zoning Ordinance the aforesaid Section XVIII-B; and

Whereas there is pending in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Docket No. L-22962-71 (P.W.) a certain action by Princeton Arms, Inc., against the Township of Hillsborough wherein said ordinance #72-3 has been challenged on the ground that it was adopted while Stanley J. Purzycki was Township Attorney and for the causes set forth in said complaint; and

Whereas the Hillsborough Township Committee hereby reaffirms its view that the aforesaid Section XVIII-B (R-G) Garden Apartment Zone has no place within the area designated for Planned Unit Development, and desires to delete said section without claim being made that such rezoning is tainted with any illegality arising out of or from its office of Township Attorney; and

Whereas Stanley J. Purzycki is not acting as Township Attorney or in any other municipal capacity, and has not done so since December 31, 1972;

Now, therefore, BE IT ORDAINED by the Township Committee of the Township of Hillsborough in the County of Somerset, as follows:

SECTION 1. Section XVIII-B of the Zoning Ordinance of Hillsborough Township, adopted on May 22, 1946 and as thereafter amended and supplemented from time to time, entitled, "(R-G) Garden Apartment Zone" is hereby deleted in its entirety from said Ordinance.

SECTION 2. All of that area described as being known and designated as Lot 13 in Block 178 as the same is shown on the Hillsborough Township Tax Map, and as heretofore included within the aforesaid provisions of the above designated "(R-G) Garden Apartment Zone" established by Section XVIII-B of the Zoning Ordinance aforesaid, is hereby declared to be within the "(R-1) Residential and Agricultural Zone" established by Section XI of the aforesaid Zoning Ordinance, and the Zoning Map of Hillsborough Township being a part of said Zoning Ordinance is hereby amended accordingly.

SECTION 3. Upon final adoption of this ordinance, Ordinance No. 72-3 adopted by the Hillsborough Township Committee on November 14, 1972 entitled, "An Ordinance To Amend An Ordinance entitled, 'The Zoning Ordinance of Hillsborough Township' Adopted May 22, 1946 And As The Same May Have Been Thereafter Amended and Supplemented From Time To Time" shall be without further force or effect.

Candidate Says She Can Give Board Priority

HILLSBOROUGH — In response to claims that she is too busy to devote time to the school board because of her involvement in other activities in the township, school board candidate Mrs. Ann Gorton this week pointed out that most of her other terms of leadership will expire shortly.

"I would like to stress that most of my elected positions will terminate as of the end of this school year. Thus I feel I will have the time necessary to devote to being a board of education member," Mrs. Gorton said.

"I am aware of the time needed to fulfill one's duties as a board of education member and if elected will have this position as first priority to anything else proposed," she added.

Mrs. Gorton has been active in the Sunnymead Home and School Association, the Council on Drug Abuse, the Community Scholarship Fair, the Girl Scouts and various other activities.

Warriors Score Double Wins; Regain Share Of Mid-State Lead

FRANKLIN TWP. – Receiving a couple of standout one quarter efforts from a pair of sopnomores, Franklin High School swept a pair of Mid-State Conference games last week to regain a share of first.

On Tuesday, Jerome Moody broke a three-game scoring drought with a 14-point third quarter as the Warriors routed North Plainfield, 85-57. Last Friday night, Dave Ingram started his first varsity contest and turned in a five-point performance in the opening stanza, as Franklin dropped Somerville, 79-63.

The double-victory permitted the Warriors to get back part of the league lead which they lost last week. Franklin now owns a 7-3 conference ledger and is tied at the top with Piscataway. The overall mark for the Warriors is 10-6.

With five players contributing to the scoring attack, Franklin jumped to a 19-10 lead after one period against the Canucks of North Plainfield. Vernon Winchester paced the effort with five markers, while Moody, Rodney Johnson, and Tony Mullins all chipped in with four.

The Warriors failed to add to their lead during the next eight minutes, but managed to maintain a nine-point bulge at intermission, 32-23. Winchester led the Warriors with nine markers before the halftime break.

Franklin came out hot in the third stanza behind Moody. The soph forward outscored the Canucks at one point in the period 10-0, as he converted five straight jumpers, including three within 18 seconds.

With Moody having the big quarter, Franklin outscored North Plainfield 28-16, during that decisive stanza. Larry Dais aided the cause with another six, while Winchester and Ted Hiller added four each.

Moody finished the contest with scoring honors as he converted 11 of 21 from the field for 22 points. Winchester had another good contest with 21, while Mullins finished with 11. Dais topped all rebounders in the contest with 16 caroms.

"Vernon had a good game today, while Jerome seems to have straightened himself out, because he also had a good game," Warrior coach Kerry Davis praised after the triumph.

"In the last two games we have looked better", he explained. "We moved the ball well, while the kids have been aggressive and have played good team defense."

Sparked by Ingram's first period effort, Franklin took a 19-14 first quarter lead and were never headed. All five of the sophomore's points came in the initial three minutes, when Franklin leaped out in front, 10-2.

The Warriors then busted the game open in the next eight minutes as they held a 21-11 advantage over the Pioneers in the second period. Winchester and Dais paced the big stanza as they hit seven and six points respectively. Franklin left the court at intermission leading, 40-25.

With Winchester continuing to score, the Warriors added another three points onto their already huge bulge by the end of the third quarter. The senior guard scored six markers as Franklin outscored Somerville, 16-13.

Winchester took over in the final period when the time came. The Pioneers after being down by 21 early in the final period, used a 16-2 advantage to knock the Warrior edge to seven, before Winchester came to the rescue and hit three straight. He also added another three buckets and finished the stanza with 12 points.

Having his best game of the year from the field, hitting on 13 of 24 attempts, Winchester took down game-high honors with 29. Dais added another 12, while Hiller finished the contest with 10. Dais led the rebounders with 19 caroms.

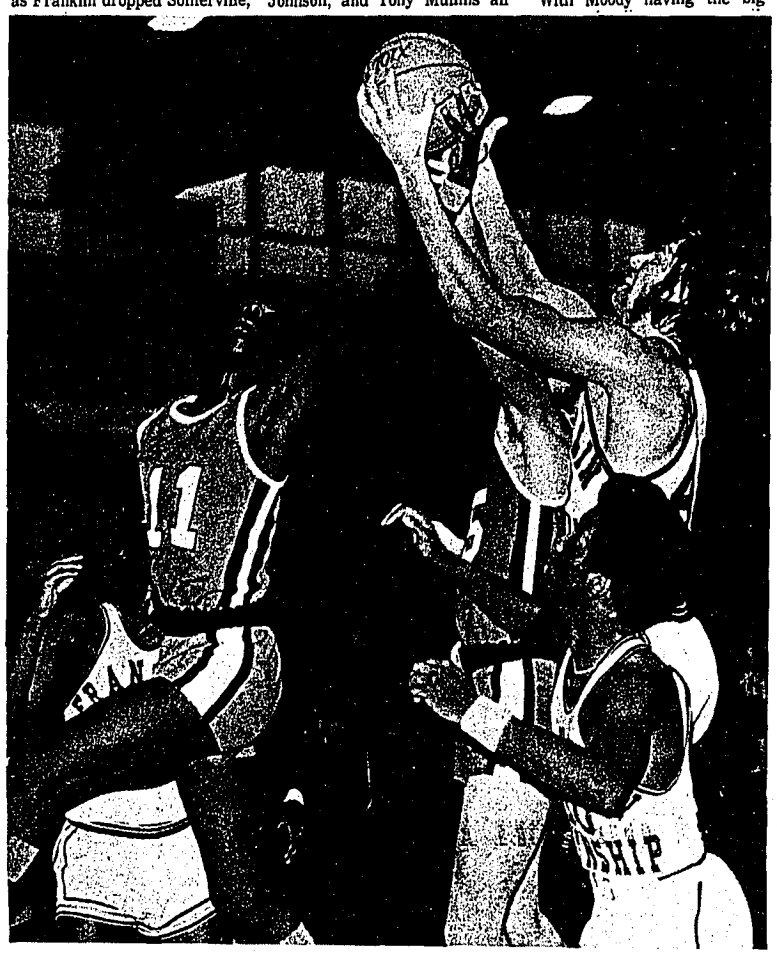
"I thought that the kids looked as if they wanted to play together against Somerville, and they did a very good job", Davis commented. With the pair of triumphs, Franklin jumped right back in to the thick of things in the MSC after taking an abbreviated vacation.

"It looks as if we have gotten ourselves straightened out right now, but the league is so close, you never know", the Warrior mentor added.

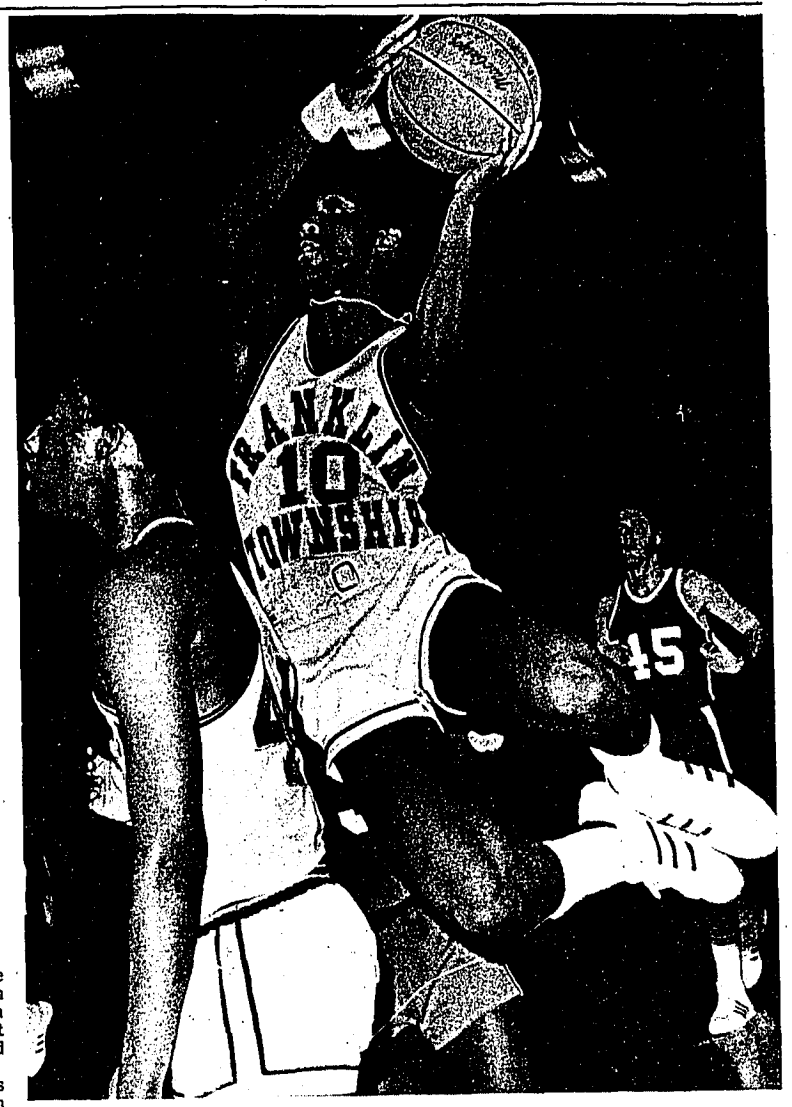
The competition will not be getting any easier for the Franklin quintet, because the Warriors must now face Bridgewater-Raritan West and South Plainfield this week. Both are capable of beating Franklin, or anyone else for that matter.

"West beat us last time, so this game should also be a difficult one, while South Plainfield has been playing better ball lately, so that game is also going to be difficult", Davis explained.

The Warriors have been playing in spurts this season, but fortunately the winning has been more than the losing, so this week should be another one for victories.



AND IT IS UP FOR GRABS, as Ted Hiller of Franklin battles Somerville's Cleveland Davidson and another Pioneer for loose carom. Larry Dais and Vernon Winchester, 10, observe action in Warrior triumph last week.



UP, UP, AND STILL UP soars Franklin's Vernon Winchester, 10, after gaining screen from teammate Larry Dais, 44. Gary Hall, 23, and Jim Moran, 45, both of Somerville watch action during Warrior victory over the Pioneers.

Franklin Matmen Drop Decision

FRANKLIN TWP. -- The Wrestling squad of Franklin High School failed to record either a pin or a superior decision and lost a 27-15 meet to South Plainfield last week.

The loss dropped the Warriors ledger to 3-2, while South Plainfield raised its to 6-1-1.

In other area grappling action, Roselle Park thumped Hillsborough (1-4-1), 37-12, and Neumann Prep dropped Rutger's Prep (1-4), 31-27.

In the loss to South Plainfield, Ernie Lewis (115), Gary Bailey (130) lost a 4-0 decision for his initial mat loss of the campaign.

Heavyweight Chris Sheridan kept his undefeated ledger intact despite Hillsborough's loss to Roselle Park. The senior pinned his opponent at the :49 mark. Al Janiec (115) and Fred Scherer (168) also recorded triumphs for the Raiders.

Lutzick Leads Manville Girls To Victories

MANVILLE – The Manville High School Girls recorded three victories last week to raise their record 13-3, as Diane Lutzick led the way.

Manville placed four players in double figures as it routed Madison Township, 83-29. Miss Lutzick led the way with 26 points, including 20 in the first half, when the Mustangs 48-14 lead.

Also hitting double - figures were Carol Collins with 12, Debbie Lauver with 11, and Mary Kinal with 10.

Miss Lutzick poured in 31 points as the Mustangettes routed Bridgewater - Raritan East 76-31, while she scored 14 enroute to Manville's 38-18 triumph over South Brunswick.

In other action, Kathy Gibbons led Hillsborough to a 48-32 victory over the St. Pius X High School girls with 21 points. The win lifted the Raiderettes to 9-4 on the season.

Worst Game

Lawrenceville Gives Prep Second Loss Of Season

SOMERSET — For the second time this season, the unexpected has happened to the Argonauts of Rutger's Prep – they lost!

Prep visited Lawrenceville Prep last Wednesday and played what might have been its worst game of the year, and thus, suffered its second setback of the campaign, 60-48.

On Saturday, the Argonauts decided to start a whole new season, and in doing so, started it on the right foot with a 86-70 romp over Blair Academy, a team that had thoroughly thrashed Lawrenceville just two weeks ago. After encountering the unusual, Prep went back to doing what it was supposed to do, win.

After the victory over Blair, Prep's ledger now stands at a very impressive 16-2.

"We started a whole new season on Saturday," declared Dick O'Connell. "Being 16-2, I can't be too disappointed with any one loss, because the kids came back and won as they played with confidence."

The setback against Lawrenceville snapped a seven-game winning streak for the Argonauts, but they found the groove against the Buccaneers, as Paul Smith once again led the way.

With Smith scoring six points, Rutger's Prep ripped off eight straight points midway through the first quarter to open a 17-10 lead. Ric Weitzen hit a jumper for the other bucket in the streak, which erased a 10-9 lead by Blair at the four-minute mark. Prep kept its seven-point edge the remainder of the period and led 19-12 as Smith poured in 10 markers.

The Argonauts tacked another four points onto its lead with a 22-18 advantage in the second stanza. Smith, who finished with a game-high of 31, led the way with another eight points, as Prep jumped to a 41-30 halftime lead.

Jeff Miklos took over after halftime, as Prep put the contest out of reach by outscoring Blair, 25-16, during the third quarter. Miklos shredded the nets for 13 points as he hit five straight field goals in the third period.

With Prep clearing the bench during the final stanza, the Buccaneers managed to slice the final deficit to 16 by the final buzzer, but the issue was never in doubt as the Argonauts had built a 80-59 bulge late in the game. Smith kept the Argonauts comfortably ahead with nine points in the last frame.

With his 31 points, Smith raised his career total to 2,364, a figure which makes him the fourth highest scorer in the state's history. Somerset County's all-time leading scorer also added 19 rebounds, while blocking another nine shots. Miklos aided the Prep cause with 20.

"We felt that we could have scored over 90 points against Blair, but I kept switching players to put pressure on defense, like we had in the beginning of the year, because in the last five games we have been a bit lax on defense," O'Connell explained.

"I used eight players throughout most of the game, trying to give the younger players a little bit of experience, while at the same time giving the starters some rest," O'Connell further commented.

Against Lawrenceville, the Argonauts just had one of those games. Despite the final score, Prep was in it right until the end, when it was down by just five with a minute and half to play. One reason for the loss was the ineffectiveness of Smith. The 6-7 center scored just 11 points, and hauled down only six caroms, both totals far below his averages.

"Paul had a poor game, mainly because of the pressure that had been put on him. After deciding to go to Rutger's, he had a great game against Greenbrook, but then had a letdown in the Lawrenceville game," the Prep coach lamented.

"Actually, Tom Raba was the only one to play up to par, while everyone just had a bad day," O'Connell added. "We just didn't go there to play basketball."

After an even first quarter, Prep outscored the home team, 14-10, during the second quarter, and took a 30-26 lead at halftime. Lawrenceville got the four points back by the end of the third stanza, but it was during it that the Argonauts lost the contest.

"We lost it in the third quarter because we had the opportunity to score, but we didn't capitalize on it," he stated. "We did not deserve to beat Lawrenceville on that given day, but I do feel that we are a much better team."

Environmental Center's Job

Bringing Man To Nature

BASKING RIDGE — "In 1973, it's not enough to guide park visitors on bird walks. Today's problems demand everybody's education in the relationship of man to his total environment."

This is how Walter A. Jones, chief naturalist for the Somerset County Park Commission, begins explanation of the goals and the services of the Environment Education Center being developed at Lord Stirling Park.

"There is urgent need today to teach everybody about the total environment of people, not just about natural resources or bird study or conservation.

"The center's programs are human-oriented, so that everyone — even those who could care less about identifying birds or flowers — will understand they are part of a complex, interwoven world and that their very existence has impact upon everything around them, including water quality, air quality and the quality of life for other humans."

Physical And Social

Mr. Jones defines environment as "everything around us at any given time — from natural surroundings to man-altered surroundings, from social conditions to the physical, mental and moral development of humans."

With so vast a canvas, where will the center start?

"You start with the need to acquire and maintain adequate open space to protect natural resources. You start with the use of this open space — and it doesn't come naturally to man to use it sensibly.

"You start with problems within the home community, such as flood plains, solid wastes and sewage treatment, and teach people about their relationship to these problems at home and how individuals and groups can help preserve environmental sanity in their own community."

Mr. Jones illustrates the expanding horizon of environmental education by pointing out that "open space needs lead to the question of land use, land use leads into planning and zoning, and zoning leads right into the taxes you pay and the kind of an environment you enjoy."

Serves All Ages

The educational scope of the center when fully operational will serve all ages as well as far-reaching subjects. An Interpretive and Education Building will house classrooms, auditorium, offices, exhibit areas, laboratory, library, book shop and a multi-use Vis-U-Sphere with a planetarium.

Other outdoor facilities will include boardwalks, wildlife observation blinds, observation towers, land use and conservation practices demonstration areas, an animal care facility, a "bug house" for raising and exhibiting interesting insects such as butterflies and moths, facilities for the handicapped, including a trail for the blind and for those confined to wheelchairs, and a "Toddler Trail" for small fry and their parents.

EEC sums up as a 400-acre classroom.

Seeking Funds

The center, now seeking funds to finance permanent facilities, currently operates from temporary quarters in a 50 by 10-foot trailer.

Environmental education involves not only the dissemination of new knowledge but the correction of inaccurate assumptions, Mr. Jones notes.

"Many Americans believe that if the government would make industry stop polluting the air and water, the environment would be perfect," he cites in example of environmental mythology. "This assumption is far from true as well as unjust criticism of industry. Automobiles account for 60 per cent or more of the nation's air pollution problems. Detergents, household cleaners, domestic sewage and home water use account for much of the water problems and pollution."

Mr. Jones said that a major role at the new center will be to serve as a channel of communication between industry, government, and the people of the community.

"People are the cause of environmental problems, and their collective activities are reflected in the actions of their government and industry as well as by the state of their environment."

Mr. Jones believes the most important age group to reach is the very young — pre-schoolers as well as early elementary pupils. "We try to provide an enjoyable learning experience for them in the outdoors, with no technical jargon, while teaching them the impact they have upon the earth."

At the high school level, the professional staff begins to deal with pollution, particularly with the question: What is pollution?

Establishment of New Jersey's first Environmental Education Center has brought two concerns, Mr. Jones reports. One is concern that development of the pioneer facility may detract attention from the Park Commission's emphasis on land acquisition. The other is that the center will bring duplication of some facilities now offered by area nature centers, watershed associations and wildlife organizations.

Concerns Unfounded

Mr. Jones stresses that both concerns are unfounded. One of the primary purposes of EEC is to educate people on the need for open space and the center's operation "will bring more emphasis on acquiring parkland."

He noted that development of the center contributed strongly to a gift of 67-1/2 acres in Bernardsville known as Little Brook Sanctuary and designated by the donor as a satellite to EEC.

Mr. Jones comments on the duplication concern this way: The center must duplicate some services in order to accommodate the needs of the six million people who live within a 30-mile radius. Existing facilities cannot meet all their demands.

"But our chief objective is different from that of other facilities. We will be augmenting some existing programs and we will be launching new programs which never have been a service phase of other centers or agencies."

Franklin Schools

the only institutions that should be charged with the solutions.

"We must first understand what role we expect our schools to play in the community of Franklin and in the totality of American Society. No individual or group can decide this role. What is needed is an interaction of all people. This dialogue, abrasive at times, will bring about a better understanding of each segment and establish short and long range goals that will improve our schools. Unless the segments of our community that want to see our schools move ahead find common ground for meeting with each other, our differences will be exploited to serve the negative forces. The result: a continuing state of tension and frustration."

Concluded Mr. Katz, "Our strengths are the source for our future. Let's work together to build the kind of school system we all need."

Finally, co-candidates Roseann Thomas and Arlene Pinheiro had this to say:

"The greatest strengths in our schools are the students themselves who come in eager and enthusiastic about learning; many creative and innovative teachers who are trying to do a good job; the physical plants themselves which are generally quite modern and well kept; the limited but good special services offered; and some basic equipment for the arts, science, library, shops, home economics depts.

"The greatest weaknesses are parent and student apathy, racial tensions, drugs, and the fact that our schools have become disciplinary institutions. We have non-relevant curriculum being offered which results in a molding out of the enthusiasm and liveliness of our children. Our parents feel shut out, powerless and confused. There appears to be a reluctance to re-examine our goals; an overall rejection of family and community resources, and contrary to our heritage. we have begun to abdicate our personal responsibilities leaving decision making in exclusively professional hands.

"We know the problems, the needs are there, and as we speak to people across this township we recognize that the energies and commitment are there to make changes in our schools. We must work together to translate theory into practice, rhetoric into programs; and this requires analysis, planning and development with broad community involvement...parents, students, teachers, administrators, and community.

"Therefore we propose a three year program called, "Strategies for Change" 1973-1976. This will involve door to door organization, township-wide workshops and seminars and conferences, to determine our educational goals and develop a working philosophy of education for Franklin Twp., to analyze present strengths and weaknesses and to propose new and alternative programs as we develop a comprehensive plan, and by July, 1976, the year of our nation's bicentennial birthday, be in a position to implement the strategies for change," said Ms. Thomas and Ms. Pinheiro.

Positive Attitude Is Needed-Katz

FRANKLIN — A call for a more positive attitude towards Franklin's school system and for more vigorous and meaningful leadership on the part of the board of education was sounded by Dr. Al Katz, a candidate for Franklin's school board.

"In a sense," Dr. Katz said, "Franklin's schools are a microcosm, reflecting the challenges and opportunities being faced by school systems across the country."

He noted that the reduced enrollments, higher taxes and racial tensions in Franklin are characteristic of communities throughout the nation.

"In Franklin, this has brought about frustration on the part of parents and students which has led to apathy, permitting the persistent critics and negativists in the community to exploit the situation to the detriment of the schools and the students," Dr. Katz said.

"They attack teachers, students, even concerned parents, seeking scapegoats rather than solutions, creating division rather than cooperation," he added.

The Franklin candidate, who is director of research for the New Jersey State Department of Higher Education, said that one means of overcoming the negative aspects in Franklin's schools while at the same time silencing the negativists is through closer cooperation, "Pooling of skills, energy, determination and hopefulness to come to grips with our problems."

Another means, he said, is through the board of education itself. "It must provide the leadership for the community and school administration. It must offer solutions rather than rhetoric."

Dr. Katz, who has offered a number of proposals including a program of continuing education for Franklin's teachers to enable them to work most effectively with the students, a program for Career Education for all grades to enable students to earn a living after graduation, and a proposal designed to clarify the confusion surrounding the school budget by having priorities and objectives spelled out before costs are determined, said that a little more action and a little less talk would "go a long way to creating the better school system we all want."

Langdon Wants Board To Drop P.M. Sessions

FRANKLIN – In commenting on issues in the Franklin school board campaign, incumbent Kenneth E. Langdon stated: "I have proposed that the P.M. session be eliminated so that both our students and taxpayers are compensated fully for the monies spent. I disagreed with the program when it started but, in all fairness, agreed to give it a chance to develop. It has not developed, and therefore should be eliminated."

Another proposal sited by Mr. Langdon would call for a totally new board structure. "I envision a board structure composed of six committees dedicated primarily to curriculum, finance, policy, employee relations, community relations and legislation.

"Each would be charged with specific goals and objectives by the board and be required to submit periodic reports back to both the board and the public.

Smith Says School Board Unable To Defend Budget

FRANKLIN – "Neither the board of education nor the administration were able or willing to adequately defend their proposed 1973-74 school budget at the public hearing on Monday," H. Richard Smith charged this week.

"If they don't understand the budget and are not prepared to give us reasonable answers to our questions, how are we as taxpayers reasonably expected to support it?" the candidate questioned.

"A group that comes before the public on so important a matter and appears so reluctant to take action, without explanation, does not deserve our support," Mr. Smith said.

"I have looked again and again at the budget, and like several current board members, I believe the budget is too high," Mr. Smith said.

"With a decrease in pupil population of approximately 500 and the same pupil to teacher ratios of 25.1 and 20:1 at the elementary and high school levels, respectively, why doesn't the budget reflect a substantial savings?

"Why are administrative costs up more than 19 per cent in the proposed budget?" Mr. Smith asked.

"The board must pare costs," he continued, "just as every one of us has had to do. The present board of education does not seem to recognize the financial impact that their budget will have upon the taxpayer and residents of Franklin.

WEST WINDSOR police demonstrate that a lock can be broken simply by jamming a screw driver into the lock and popping it out.

A Primer For Homeowners And Their Neighbors

To Foil A Thief

by Jane Kerney

WEST WINDSOR -- In light of the dramatic increase in the number of breaking and enterings in the township during 1972, police have begun a program of home protection seminars. Any township resident may set up a coffee with a group of neighbors which a member of the police force will attend and discuss methods of keeping houses safe from burglars.

In West Windsor, the number of breaking and enterings rose 23 per cent to 272 in 1972. Fifty-eight were in private homes.

The value of stolen property also rose 109 per cent in West Windsor during 1972 to $122,140 worth of property.

In Princeton Township, the number of burglaries rose 46 per cent with the value to stolen property increasing to $110,800.

Princeton Borough however saw a 32 per cent decrease in the number of breaking and enterings to 229 during 1972 with a companion decrease in the total value of property stolen to $121,790. This was a 23 per cent decrease from last year.

Protection Steps

The police break the home protection plan into three phases, when residents are out for a short time, when they are home and when they are away on vacation.

When going out during the day or evening, lock all outside doors and windows. Leave one or more lights burning, in a location such as a hallway or upstairs room which is not visible from a ground floor window.

A good idea is to leave a radio playing, tuned to a talk show, according to police Lieutenant Cox. This gives the impression of conversation in the house.

Don't leave notes attached to doors or inside that indicate no one is home.

Neighbors Best

"The best burglar prevention and apprehension is a neighbor," Lt. Cox said. Neighbors should always be told about your plans to be away from the house.

Also tell neighbors what lights will be left on, or if any company or deliveries are expected; and ask that they watch for anything suspicious and notify police immediately.

Anyone who does notify the police about a suspicious person should remain on the phone with the police, if possible until the patrol car arrives. Try to get a complete description of the color, year and make of the burglar's car, the license number and any description possible of the suspicious person.

One final note on protecting houses while away, Lt. Cox said, is to remember to lock the garage door as well as the door leading into the kitchen or laundry room. If the garage door is open all the burglar has to do is go in the garage, close the door and take as long as he wants to open the inside door.

At Home, Too

The Lieutenant also emphasized that residents should be cautious when they are at home. A color television set was recently stolen from one township home while the owner was taking a shower, Lt. Cox said.

CREDIT CARDS ARE a handy item for slipping the lock on doors.

While at home, keep outside doors locked and never admit strangers into the house for any reason.

Report any solicitors or salesmen without proper credentials to the police immediately, and don't leave valuable possessions in the open.

Lt. Cox also suggested installing a chain lock on all doors.

Vacation Tips

Before leaving for a vacation make sure to discontinue all deliveries. The deliveries should be stopped at least one day before leaving to make sure they actually do stop. Arrange for lawn care and the removal of all circulars that might accumulate. Have the post office hold or forward all mail or ask a neighbor to pick it up.

Don't publicize a vacation ahead of time.

"Burglars read the newspapers," Lt. Cox said, and know when you are away from a home.

The Lieutenant also emphasized that people should not "send back to the local newspaper a picture of the big fish they caught during their extended vacation in Mexico."

Ask a neighbor to check the house periodically, to turn on different lights or to make sure the timer is working.

Never pull the shades or drapes all the way closed while away on vacation.

If, upon returning to the house, there are obvious signs that the house has been entered, do not go in. Lt. Cox asked that residents phone the police from a neighbor's house and wait until the police arrive before entering the house.

Minimize Dangers

"No house is completely burglar-proof," Lt. Cox said, but anything done to discourage or hinder a burglar will be of assistance since any thief's prime objective is to be in and out of the house as quickly as possible.

Lt. Cox suggested several means of discouraging burglars.

Make sure that all doors and windows have substantial locks on them. Have a locksmith check the doors and windows, if necessary.

Leave on exterior and interior lights around the house when it is empty.

Buy a good watch dog and don't leave it in the basement or garage when out of the house.

Use a timer on certain lights in the house so that they go on and off automatically when the house is empty.

The police have engravers available to mark valuables for identification. Just as burglars are reluctant to steal monogramed silverware, they are equally wary of other engraved valuables since it is difficult to "fence" or sell such items.

How Do You Cut Home Fuel Bills With A Thermostat?

by David Brook

Probably the most fought-over control in the house next to the TV channel selector is the thermostat. Everybody, especially the bill payer of the household, has their own preference for the "optimum" comfortable temperature." The fuel oil shortage widely discussed recently adds another dimension to the problem of economy in home heating.

The domestic winter conflict asks: is it more economical to turn the thermostat down when you go to bed or out to work and back up when you return, or is it better to leave the temperature setting the same all day and night.

Honeywell, one of the larger manufacturers of thermostats in the USA recently recommended seven ways to cut fuel costs (and sell more thermostats). They claim that a household can cut its fuel bill by as much as eight per cent if the thermostat is regularly turned down 5-10 degrees for eight-hour periods.

The figures from Honeywell indicate that one per cent is saved for every degree below 70 the thermostat is turned down, for eight hours. Honeywell also says that costs increase approximately three per cent for every degree over 70 the thermostat is set.

Some of Honeywell's other recommendations may save you as much thermostat dial twisting, however. Don't let drapes and furniture block the circulation of air around radiators. Use storm windows or double-pane glass and weatherstripping on doors wherever possible. Turn off radiators in unused rooms and keep those doors closed.

Make sure fireplace dampers are closed except when in use. Don't expect to save any money by keeping a log burning in your fireplace since the draft created by the fire sends as much hot air up the chimney as is radiated by the fire.

Scientists estimate that a furnace is about 70 per cent efficient in converting fuel to heat when it is properly adjusted. However a recent government study on alternative energy sources indicates in space heating, which accounts for 40 per cent of the nation's energy use, furnaces are more often operating at about 35 per cent efficiency: a good reason to have your furnace and thermostat checked and cleaned at least once a season, preferably at the beginning. Don't forget to bleed air from hot water radiators.

Efficiency may be the key to a warm house this winter especially with possibilities of fuel shortages under prolonged cold spells. Already parts of the mid and far west have experienced oil shortages. Natural gas, bottled gas and electrically heated homes are not affected by the fuel crisis, although supplies of natural gas are dwindling, too.

"We're still a little bit pessismistic about getting through this season, despite the President lifting the oil import restrictions," said David Brewster, executive director of the Fuel Merchants Association of New Jersey. "It's a matter of supply and demand," he said. The Fuel Merchants Association has been lobbying for the removal of the import restrictions on crude oil.

Area oil suppliers, when asked if there was a possibility of fuel shortages in the Princeton area, were reluctant to the point of refusal to discuss the problem, apparently fearing it might hurt business. It appears that most local distributors have been told by their suppliers that they will be allocated the same amount of oil as they purchased during the same months last year, a relatively warm winter.

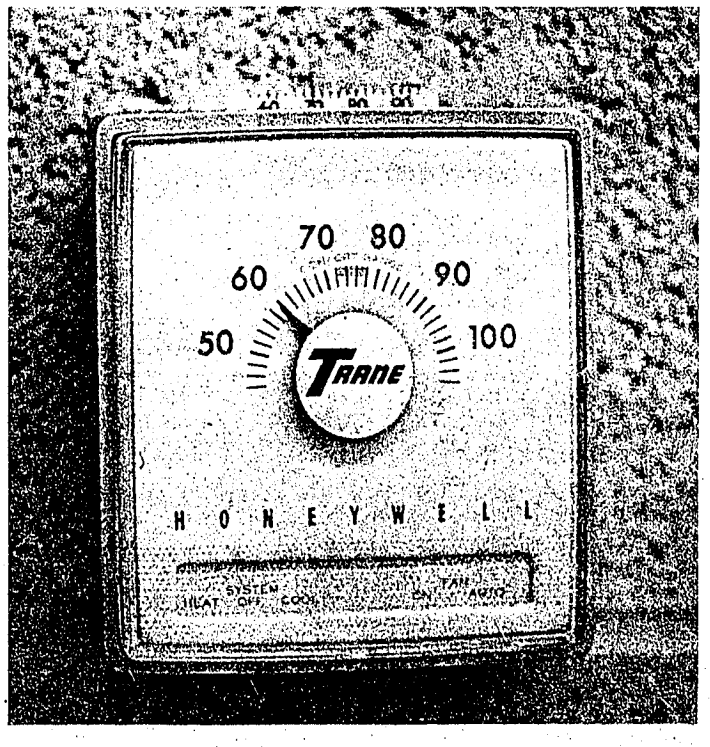
Refinery operators who allocate the fuel to local distributors indicate that while they don't expect anybody to run out of oil this winter there may be shortages if the temperature remains under 20 degrees for a period longer than three weeks.

The fuel problem has arisen from several changes in recent years. In addition to the generally increasing consumption of energy, ecology-oriented laws have been passed which ban the burning of high sulpher content coal.

The major users of this coal were the electricity generating companies who switched over to burning oil-decreasing the amount available to homes.

While the import restrictions have been lifted temporarily it will be at least six weeks before this new source will have taken any pressure off the refiners, whose late switch-over from production of auto fuel to heating fuel started too late last autumn to meet the winter's demands.

The problem won't be solved even if we make it through the winter without a crisis since the basic inequalities will remain in the federal governments favoritism of some energy producers over natural gas, for example, over oil. So, next time you turn the thermostat up, or go for a pleasure drive in your car, remember: "the heat is really on" this winter!

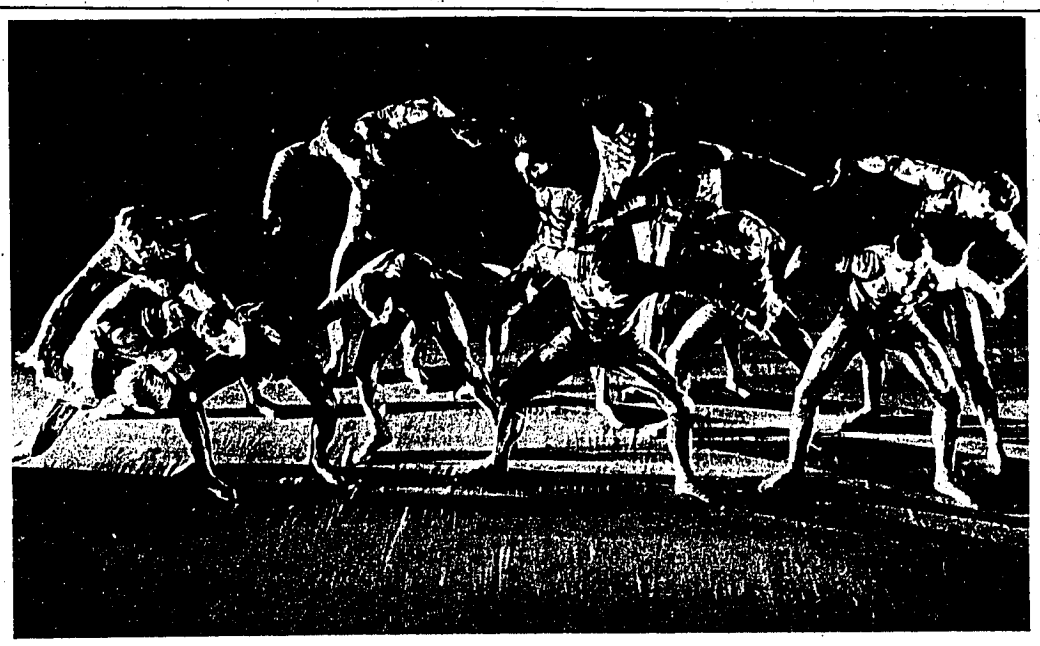


Israeli Violinist To Give Recital

Pinchas Zukerman, who at the age of 24 has already established himself as one of the half-dozen principal violinists in the concert world today, will make his Princeton recital debut at McCarter Theatre on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4 at 3 p.m.

The Israeli-born artist will perform sonatas by Mozart, Franck and Paul Hindemith, as well as a group of six short pieces by Fritz Kreisler. Zukerman was the 1967 winner of the Leventritt Award at the age of 19, and made his New York debut with the New York Philharmonic two years later. In addition to orchestral appearances and solo recitals, he has won acclaim in his chamber music concerts, with pianist Daniel Barenboim and as a member of the Barenboim-Zukerman-Du Pre Trio.

Zukerman began his violin studies at the age of eight with his father. In 1961, Issac Stern and Pablo Casals, appearing at the First Festival of Music in Israel, heard him and recommended advanced studies in this country. He subsequently came to the Juilliard School and began work with the renowned violin teacher Ivan Galamian.



Polish Mime Troupe Next In Series

MIME TO PERFORM

Marcel Marceau, universally acclaimed as the greatest living pantominist, will appear in Kendall Theatre on the Trenton State College campus on Thursday, Feb. 1, at 8 p.m.

Poland's Henryk Tomaszewski, who has developed a language of movement unique in the contemporary dance world, will bring his Polish Mime Ballet Theatre to McCarter Theatre this Saturday, February 3 at 8:30 p.m. at the fourth event in McCarter's Dance Series. Tomaszewski, who founded his troupe of 30 mime-dancers in 1955, had to rely entirely on his own invention at the outset, since Poland had no tradition of mime. By incorporating elements of dance, gymnastics and ritual, he has evolved an exclusive dance form which utilizes movement, images, light and sound. The Polish company will perform three works by Tomaszewski at its second McCarter appearance (the first was in 1964): "The Labyrinth," "Faust," and "The Kimono." Remaining seats in the orchestra only are available at the box office.

The Slumbering Groundhog Ledge of Quarryville takes on approach to weather forecasting.

At the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club — a more formal approach.

Quarryville Vs. Punxsutawney

Two Groundhog Day Vigils Open To Public On Friday

The Punxsutawney Groundhog Club in west central Pennsylvania, 80 miles from Pittsburgh, claims to have predicted the weather for the nation for almost a century. On Friday, Feb. 2, their convivial members, dressed in top hats and tails, will trek to Gobbler's Knob and report to a suspense-filled nation as to whether the groundhog, Punxsutawney Phil, the Great Prognosticator, has or has not seen his shadow.

When he crawls out of his hole in the wee hours of the morning, if he sees his shadow, six more weeks of winter are in store. If not, spring is just around the corner.

But this year the Punxsutawney group is being challenged openly for the first time by the Slumbering Groundhog Lodge of Quarryville (near Lancaster) which has been observing its own groundhog for more than half a century and has more confidence in his accuracy.

Sam Light, current president of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club, and a coal-mine owner, says about Quarryville, "They can't tell the difference between a skunk and a groundhog."

"They're fakers, misleading the entire nation," says Lancaster attorney John Rangier, who is Quarryville's "Doctor of Hex and Lex" and a member of the "Hibernating Governors" in the type of nomenclature peculiar to both societies. "Punxsutawney," he continues, "has a poor groundhog rating. Personally, I don't believe they even get up in the morning to look."

Sam Light of Punxsutawney counters with, "They're just latching on to our coattails. They're johnny-come-latelies."

Whatever their differences, both Punxsutawney and Quarryville groundhog vigils will be open to the public and both offer the visitor plenty of sightseeing fun and exotic food.

In Quarryville, at sunrise, Puddleduck Creek squads dressed in white nightshirts and night hats will meet at dawn and begin their vigil of the groundhog hole. In due course they will report their observations to the Hibernating Governors at the Great Slumbering Groundhog Lodge where the ceremonies will begin in earnest. The Puddleduck Creek squads will march on the parade grounds to the blasts of an old cannon, removed years ago from an American fighting ship. A band composed of violins, drums and cymbals will provide a martial air.

Up north in Punxsutawney there will be a different kind of ceremony. The trek will start at sunrise and there will be a breakfast of flapjacks and sausages open to the public. Members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club will march in their top hats and tails with their special marbled canes. Throughout the day there will be ceremonies including special assemblies; "King and Queen of Groundhog Day" will be named and also a "Woman of the Year." There will be entertainment topped off with a huge Groundhog Day dinner open to the public, the menu reflecting the humor and good will of the day.

The menu this year includes: His Majesty's relish plate, woodchuck salad, beef a la Seer of Seers, whipped potatoes a la Gobbler's Knob, soothsayers gravy, forecast green beans, slumber-style rolls, hibernated butter, shadow-casting coffee, and prophet cookies.

Regardless of which groundhog ceremony you choose to watch, they are both easily accessible with ample accommodations for amateur groundhog watchers.

In point of fact the Punxsutawney groundhog watchers appear to have the edge when it comes to age and history. The first "groundhog trek" to Gobbler's Knob just four miles outside the town took place in 1882 and became an "official trek" in 1887. They have been doing it each year since on February 2nd. Punxsutawney Phil "is the king of the weather prophets, the one and only in the world" according to the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club. "In all the years that he has been making shadowcasting forecasts, he has been wrong only once," says Sam Light. "In 1970, he just plain refused to come out."

On the other hand, the Quarryville group began their February 2nd observation in 1909, or almost 30 years after that first Punxsutawney sunrise vigil.

Eastern watchers can get to Punxsutawney on I-80 with a turn at Interchange 219 (the DuBois Interchange). Those coming from the general direction of Chicago can also use I-80. From Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore, the Pennsylvania Turnpike to the Breezewood Interchange is a simple trip. Then take Route 30 West to Route 56 to Johnstown and Route 219 to McGees Mills and follow the signs to Punxsutawney.

If Quarryville is your choice, from Philadelphia take Route 1 to the intersection of 472 at Oxford and continue to Route 472 through Kirkwood and then watch the "Groundhog Day" signs.

With the exception of the fact that it offered some wholesome fun and a good excuse to tap a keg of beer, nobody really knows how Groundhog Day began. The common theory is based on the Old Scotch couplet:

"If Candelmas Day is bright and clear
There will be twa winters in the year."

For roadmaps and other information to observe or participate in Punxsutawney vs. Quarryville, 1973, write to the Pennsylvania Bureau of Travel Development, Department of Commerce, South Office Building, Room S-101, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120.

Recreation Vehicle Show Opens At Freehold Mar. 23

FREEHOLD — "Follow the Fun" is the theme of the Sixth Annual Year Round Camping and Recreational Vehicle Show at the Freehold Raceway here on March 23, 24, 25.

The industry in New Jersey will be gearing up for this show for the next two months. It's New Jersey's largest and most impressive show.

Through its "Follow the Fun" theme, the show will present the many exciting and interesting adventures the average family can enjoy with a recreation vehicle. A free information kit given to all attendants contains literature on campgrounds throughout the country and what they have to offer. Every day, different films, slides and lectureres will show how recreational vehicles may be enjoyed to their fullest.

Seminars

There will be seminars on how to care for your recreational vehicle, rap sessions on storage of recreational vehicles. Manufacturers of components and accessories for recreational vehicles will be on hand to demonstrate their products and explain how to care for them for longest life.

Entertainment Too

Every afternoon and evening, live entertainment is scheduled for the show. A complete schedule of events will be published early in March. Entertainment already booked includes: clowns, magic shows, barber shop quartets and square dancers.

The show will feature some two hundred recreational vehicles, booths, exhibits and displays. Included in the recreational vehicles are truck campers, travel trailer, tent campers, motor homes, fifth wheel vehicles and truck caps. More than one million dollars worth of merchandise will be on display.

The show is sponsored annually by the New Jersey Recreational Vehicle Institute with headquarters in Somerset, New Jersey. This is the state trade association for recreational vehicle dealers. Freehold is the only statewide show sponsored by the industry in New Jersey.

"Every year, our show committee tries to outdo the previous committee," stated Ken Sandford of Sandford Trailer Sales in Toms River, chairman of the Freehold Show. "This year, we're offering two distinct advantages to the public. First, parking will be free for the first time. That's a savings of 50¢ per car. Secondly, advance tickets will be on sale at all recreational vehicle dealers who are members of NJRVI. The state trade association now represents the majority of RV dealers in the state. By buying tickets in advance, folks can eliminate waiting in line to purchase tickets at the Raceway. On Saturday and Sunday afternoons, these lines get awfully long."

The show committee is also putting emphasis on accessories in this show. They have already signed up hitch manufacturers, camping, food distributors, furnace firms and accessories distributors. At least two dozen accessories booths are expected in the show, including camping, trailer and motor home publications and guide books.

Campers and all families considering recreational vehicles in the near future are asked to mark their calendars for the late March dates of New Jersey's largest show, the Year Round Camping and Recreational Vehicle Show at the Freehold Raceway.

Mime Ballet

The Polish Mime Ballet Theatre will perform three works in its return to Princeton's McCarter Theatre on Saturday, Feb. 3 at 8:30 p.m. The company of 30 from Wroclaw, under the direction of Henryk Tomaszewski, appeared at McCarter during their first American tour almost a decade ago, in the winter of 1964.

The National Park Service this year is offering the "Golden Eagle Passport" through all U.S. Post Offices. The passport, which costs $10, covers annual entrance fees to 75 national recreation areas administered by the Park Service and U.S. Forest Service.

A new feature has been added this year: free Golden Age Passports for anyone over 62 years of age, upon presentation of proof of age. The passports will also entitle the holder to a 50 per cent discount on special recreation fees at the 75 facilities, including campgrounds.

The nearest federal parks to this area are the White Mountain and Green Mountain parks in New England and the Shenandoah Park in Virginia. Campers and travel trailers owners will be especially interested

Real Estate Happenings

By BOB DUNHAM

Did you know that $1 will support a purchase of $1,000,000 or more? A deed requires a certain consideration from the purchaser in order to be legal. The law calls a "consideration" any sum, large or small. Thus, you can bind yourself to pay for a piece of real estate worth hundreds of thousands with a mere $1 dollar bill. Of course, you have still bound yourself to pay the rest of the bill. To quote leading authorities: "The slightest consideration is sufficient to support the most onerous obligation."

No matter what price home you are considering
RICHARDSON REALTY CO.
Route 130

will give you the same personalized, professional service in meeting your real estate needs. And when you list your home with us, through our Homes for Living Magazine, it will be exposed to more potential buyers, guiding them in the selection of a home.

Tree Seedlings Available Again In Special Sale

Both Mercer and Somerset County Soil Conservation Districts will be repeating last year's successful evergreen tree seedling sale. For $4 the purchaser gets 25 baby trees of five different species: White Pine, Austrian Pine, Douglas Fir, Colorado Blue Spruce and Japanese Black Pine.

Orders must be placed and paid for by March 15 and will be ready for pick-up and planting about April 1 - as soon as frost ends and seedlings can be dug up. The sale of seedlings, made possible by the Society of American Foresters, raises money for the operating expenses of the soil conservation districts' operating expenses, which are not covered by government appropriations.

Somerset County residents may order their seedlings by writing:
Somerset-Union Soil Conservation District
1151 US Highway 202
Somerville, N.J. 08876
(201) 725-3848

Mercer County residents may order theirs seedlings from:
Mercer County Soil Conservation District
930 Spruce Street
Trenton, N.J. 08638
(609) 695-5416

Instructions for the proper planting of the seedlings will be supplied to each customer.

Natural Resources And Municipalities Is Paper's Topic

Publication of the second in a series of six reports designed to aid municipal officials and interested citizens in creating zoning laws and land use policies based on environmental, social and economic realities has been announced by the North Jersey Conservation Foundation, in Morristown.

The 57 page paper called "Natural Resource for Municipal Fund and Profit," is part of the series, "The Process of Environmental Assessment — Options and Limits." It will be mailed free to the heads of each of New Jersey's 567 municipalities and the chairmen of the state's 160 municipal commissions. Others may purchase the guide from the Foundation, 300 Mendham Road, Morristown, 07960 for $2 per copy.

"Practically no zoning laws in New Jersey are based on the logical rules set down by nature, said David F. Moore, executive director of the foundation, "factors such as water supply, drainage, steep slopes, marshes, flood plains or soil types," Moore continued. "It is significant also that two municipal zoning laws have already crumbled under legal attack because they lacked such engineering or ecological support, and more are certain to fall," he added.

PURSE close to body, clasp on the inside, and firm grasp on the purse with thumb through the loop is the proper way to protect your property from potential snatchers.

Carry That Bag Like A Football To Foil A Thief

by Jane Kerney

With the number of purse snatchings on the increase, women should be more careful about the way they carry their pocketbooks to discourage potential purse snatchers.

In 1971 there were 11 purse snatchings in Princeton Borough and in 1972 the number of purse snatchings rose to 15, according to Police Chief Michael Carnevale.

As a one-time New Yorker, I was taught at my Granny's knee to carry a pocketbook as if it were the "Hope" Diamond.

Never use a pocketbook without a clasp of some sort. The type that simply flap closed are an open invitation to any purse snatcher worth his salt.

A bag with a shoulder strap is easier to protect. Put the strap over your shoulder and carry the bag with the clasp toward your body. Clamp your elbow over the bag and put your thumb through the loop connecting the strap to the bag. If there is no loop, grab the pocketbook.

If this sounds like some sort of Hindu meditation exercise, it isn't. It is really a very simple method of carrying a purse and much more protective than allowing it to swing.

Of course, it is always a good idea to carry money and credit cards and identification separately. Since credit cards and drivers licenses are difficult and annoying to replace, they should be kept in the zipper part of the pocketbook. Purse snatchers usually grab the purse and run. As they run they take out the wallet and immediately throw away the pocketbook. No purse snatcher wants to be caught holding the bag.

The Princeton Borough Police have had excellent success in catching suspected purse snatchers, but there is no sense in being a sitting duck for any of them left on the streets.

Trenton Symphony Concert To Spotlight Local Talent

TRENTON -- Continuing its practice of spotlighting the finest in local talent, the Greater Trenton Symphony will present three local soloists on its Feb. 4 concert at 8 p.m. at the War Memorial Auditorium.

The "Trenton Makes, the World Takes" concert will feature Marion Zarzeczna, pianist; Philippe Djokic, violinist; and David Madison, violinist.

Miss Zarzeczna will perform the Grieg Piano Concerto. She has appeared with the Trenton Symphony several times and also with the Delaware Valley Philharmonic, the Garden State Philharmonic, the Valley Forge Orchestra, and in Salzburg and Stuttgart with the 7th Army Orchestra. She is on the faculty of the Curtis Institute of Music and was a winner of the Leschetizky Debut Prize, a two year Fullbright grant, and the Anna B. Stokes Award.

Philippe Djokic is a remarkable young violinist who resides in Trenton and teaches violin at Princeton University. He was a first place winner of the Stokes competition and has been concertmaster of the Mercer Symphonic Orchestra. He is presently studying at Juilliard with Ivan Galamian. He will perform the lyric Mendelsohn Violin Concerto.

David Madison is in his fourth year as concertmaster of the Trenton Symphony. He recently retired as assistant concertmaster of the Philadelphia Orchestra, a position he held for over 20 years. Mr. Madison will be heard in the Vivaldi Winter Concerto from the Seasons.

Other works on the program include Swan of Tuonela by Sibelius, and the Magic Flute Overture by Mozart.

The program will be videotaped by Channel 52 for broadcast at a later date. Tickets may be ordered from the Symphony Office at 394-1338.
